The next-gen edition of FIFA features a new matchday mode called "Ultimate Team Mode," where players get to build the ultimate team. It is comprised of 50 skills cards, each of which gives you something of tangible value. For instance, a Skills Card for a Striker could give you a smoother forward pass, or a Muscular card could give you a more physical centre back. Players can level up the Skills Cards, and unlock rewards from winning matches. Players can purchase Skills Cards and receive them as rewards from the goalkeepers and assistants throughout the game. The game also uses the connected device feature and "Recommendations" AI, which delivers customised play suggestions and tutorials based on the player's performance, as well as the type of match and time of day. FIFA 22 will be released on September 29, 2017, for PlayStation 4, Xbox One, and PC. Be sure to check out more information on FIFA 22 in our pre-release info hub.

Q: Heroku: custom domain redirecting to old application I have managed to get a domain for my Rails app using Heroku. I have successfully redirected the domain to my Rails app. However, in order to get the domain I had to change the app name in my Heroku dashboard under 'Configurations'. When I enter the domain in a browser (www.mydomain.com), it redirects to www.myapp.herokuapp.com. How can I fix this? A: I solved it myself. When you create a new domain (mydomain.com), you are directed to a page where you can enter DNS records for your new domain. There are 2 DNS records that you have to create: CNAME records, e.g. www.mydomain.com -> myapp.herokuapp.com CNAME records, e.g. mydomain.com -> myapp.herokuapp.com

Q: Free tool to view Powerpoint 2010 presentation on a Dell 2412N I just bought a new Dell 2412N, and unfortunately, it's fairly useless. I cannot use the screen as it's completely scratched up, and it's too expensive to replace, so it needs to be fixed in order to be usable. It does have a 24" monitor. However, it would be much easier to fix

Trust Pays Off Several years ago, I was concerned about building a career and the number of hours I was working. After all, I was a busy mom. So, I turned to management techniques and mentor coaching to help me grow in my career. A year ago, I found out that I am now a marketing manager, and I am extremely proud of that. One day during a meeting, I got to know a woman named Shirley who was working in a small company. Shirley knew she needed to work on her leadership skills, and she was looking for help. Shirley was very serious about making a better life for herself and her children. A few weeks later, Shirley accepted a job with a larger company where her salary was higher than her previous company. Shirley told me, "I couldn't get past the front desk, but the front desk doesn't count." One of the reasons I decided to become a mentor was because I wanted to see if I would make a better leader after all the hard work I had done. As a company, we all struggle with expectations. After all, we are the boss and we are accountable to our team, but we also expect
