Experience the most realistic flight simulator of its kind while learning to fly a wide variety of planes and combat situations in order to dominate the skies. Choose your gameplay style and easily configure numerous flight features to personalize your simulation experience from fight-to-fight, or fly in a team as a squadron leader on the tactical servers of the free, open-source multiplayer servers of FrontlineS. Featuring full cockpit, post-release content and the latest industry standards to ensure the most realistic flight experience possible, DCS World 2.2 also introduces numerous air-to-air and air-to-ground modding features to create the most realistic simulation ever made. Large amounts of cloud cover make the perfect backdrop for some good ol' style wintertime skiing. In DCS World 2.2, Russian aircraft have to deal with severe weather conditions for the first time in a long while. Be sure to make the most out of this chance to enjoy an authentic, snow filled snow mobile warfare in DCS World 2.2! DeepMarker: Our new marker rendering technology provides increased visibility and greater control. The marker rendering in this game updates in real-time, so you can instantly control the display of your laser designation systems (LDS) – especially in close-air situations where the distance to the target is short. First Person View (FPV):In DCS World 2.2, we offer a new feature for drones called FPV (First Person View). It gives you the opportunity to experience the drone from the cockpit and use the various flight functions of the aircraft. In addition, the control interface and the HUD are aligned with the virtual reality headset you are wearing. With FPV, you can use the drone's controls normally, while remaining in the real game environment. This means that you can fly the aircraft without the need to destroy your virtual reality glasses. Direct X11/OpenGL Scalable Graphics: Direct X 11 provides more than ever before a modern real-time rendering engine for 3D graphics. While DirectX 11 itself is not a new technology, it can support more than one hardware platform simultaneously and is therefore optimally suited for large-scale multi-platform PC development. These are not only power-consuming high-end, expensive GPUs, but also older gaming PC's with integrated graphics chips. In DCS World 2.2, we have a complete implementation of the new DirectX 11 capabilities that was developed from the ground up for multi-platform gaming. For instance, DirectX 11 means that

From then on, you'll receive all the new features on top of a secure and up-to-date platform! Get Tacview 3.6.1 now! Eager to understand what really happened during your last flight? Tacview is a universal flight data analysis tool which enables you to easily record, analyze and understand any flight to improve your skills much faster than with conventional debriefings. Whether you are a private pilot, a virtual squadron leader, or a casual simmer, Tacview is an invaluable tool which enables you to understand what really happened and to improve piloting style as well as tactical skills! Record Tacview can read and record flight data from the most popular flight simulators: DCS World, Falcon 4.0, IL-2 Sturmovik, X-Plane, Lockheed Martin Prepar3D, Microsoft Flight Simulator, VRS TacPack & Superbug, Enemy Engaged Comanche vs. Hokum, and many more to come! Your favorite flight simulator is not yet supported? Use our comprehensive technical documentation to create your own data exporter. You are a real life pilot? Directly import flight data recorded by your GPS using the GPX and KML file formats or convert any proprietary flight data into the straightforward CSV file format. Analyze From your cockpit it is hard to know what happened all around you, especially on the other side of the theater. Use Tacview to take in the whole battlefield with a single glance, while simultaneously keeping an eye on the smallest detail. As an instructor, you can now monitor and record trajectories, speed, and positions so you can clearly and easily demonstrate to your cadets how to improve their flight skills. Visualize radar locks and missiles' behavior to efficiently analyze both BVR flights and dogfights. From aspect angle to G forces, display and compare any telemetry number in tables, on aircraft and labels in the 3D view. Analyze the flight envelope and performances like corner speed by drawing detailed charts in just one click! You can even export telemetry data for deeper analysis in your favorite spreadsheet. Understand Everything is clear in Tacview: The whole world is synthesized with clean and easy to read colors and shapes. Move freely to look everywhere: Jump into the cockpit of any aircraft or ground unit, center

This blog will remain active and continues to update as I draw a little closer to the end of my journey through this business (April 30, 2013). My time commitment has shifted from about 4 hours a week to about 3 hours a week; days may not all be easy. I'll be sure to leave you a message either on Twitter or on my forum at the end of every week if I'll have any good one-liners. So, I'll say keep the holidays in your minds. Do be good to all. Follow via Email Followers I'm not really feeling the kudos this morning because I've been quite tired and I can't think straight at times when I'm tired. Maybe it's that I'm a bit sad this evening because I've been reflecting on the weeks and weeks that I've been off work and I'm not sure I'd really want to go through that all again so soon. It was nice to have the long weekend coming up as we finished a little bit. I noticed the Elana's, Joy, and Michelle were all blogging today as well which is so nice to see. Truckie's Gift Box - 09/10/2012 My little son had his 12th birthday party two weeks ago. He had chocolate chip cupcakes and he was the tie that held the train together lol. We had a theme: Haunted House. It was a really neat experience with mini versions of the room I've recently been put in lol We had a big cake in the middle, and little dishes with similar matchy matchy items on them with mini candles. I was the evil witch, and it was a fairly easy theme to follow. Before the party I decorated the outside a bit and put flowers in the window (

Bluebell music publisher charged with sex offences A publisher of top-selling Christmas CD and DVD has been charged with offences allegedly involving children. Patrick Green, 42, who has been director of the Charles H Townshend publishing company for 21 years, is charged with nine counts of indecency with children, nine counts of promoting prostitution, and five counts of possession of a controlled drug. Green faces up to two years in prison if convicted of the charges. The offences are alleged to have occurred in Kent and Surrey between December 2000 and February 2003. His partner, 43, was charged with four counts of the same offences and is in custody awaiting trial. The £6.2million-a-year firm published Britain's biggest-selling disc of Christmas carols, "Songs for the Season" and its biggest-selling holiday DVD, "The Children of the World - Christmas in Heaven", both by groups of children, and sold the songs to all of the world's major record companies. Green is also known for his bestselling cookbook, "Cooking with Kids". Green, from London, and his partner are charged with a total of six offences. Each count carries a maximum sentence of five years in prison. Their solicitor, Colin Ford, said they should be presumed innocent. He added that under production, film and TV copyright rules, the firm had no control over the production of the videos and CD. Mr Ford said: "My clients have done nothing wrong and have not abused the children in any way. These proceedings are a gross injustice and will have a devastating and
