I am new to Firebase and I have been following its tutorial in the past week and came to the fact that all data in firestore is stored in a tree-like way, where all the data are organized in a group and each group is linked to other groups as children, and so on. For my app, which will have a list of activities (e.g. cook, swim, exercise) I would like to retrieve all the activities which can be done in a gym by notifying a gym object of a user. For now the gym object has an array of Users, and each User has an array of Activities. Each Activity has a type like 'cook', 'exercise' and so on. Currently I am able to call the users collection and retrieve 6d1f23a050
